

General
Osteopathic
Council

GOsC Osteopath Member

Simeon London

Simeon London is a member of the Remuneration and Appointments Committee.

Simeon qualified from the British School of Osteopathy (BSO) in 1995 and practises in Renfrewshire, Scotland. He is currently Dean of Academic Development at the BSO where he is responsible for leadership and development of the school's academic provision to ensure high quality training, teaching and assessment across the faculty, and the development and quality enhancement across the school's academic portfolio.

Previous to this role Simeon held a number of management posts within the BSO, including Head of Clinical Practice and Head of Clinical Education. Simeon is a registration assessor for the GOsC and an education visitor for the Quality Assurance Agency for Higher Education.