

Dustie Houchin

Dustie Houchin has been involved in osteopathy since 1998, when she graduated from the British School of Osteopathy. She teaches osteopathy and animal osteopathy around the world and is passionate about the advancement of osteopathic education in both fields. She is also an examiner at the European School of Osteopathy (ESO) and a dissertation supervisor at Warwick Business School, where she holds the position of Teaching Associate.

In addition to her teaching commitments, Dustie is the Programme Leader for the MSc Animal Osteopathy at the ESO and has written numerous associated programmes and courses. She is a founder of the Association of Animal Osteopaths and the Register of Animal Musculoskeletal Practitioners and has been a keynote speaker at several conferences over the past 10 years.

Further to her osteopathic qualifications, Dustie also holds an MBA from Warwick Business School and SDA Bocconi, Italy, and an Advanced Management Certificate from Ashridge Business School. She also holds a PGCHE from the University of Greenwich and was one of the first graduates of the Osteopathic Leadership Programme run by the GOsC and the Open University. Clinically, she runs a busy osteopathic practice in Chalfont St Giles, Buckinghamshire.
