

GOsC Osteopath Members

Paula Cook

Paula Cook is a member of the Education and Remuneration Committees.

She qualified as an osteopath from the British School of Osteopathy in 2008 and before her osteopathic training was Director of Human Resources and a partner in a global financial services firm. She has been a Non-Executive Director in an NHS Trust and is currently a lay member at the Employment Tribunals Service.

Paula now works in general osteopathic practice in Cranleigh, Surrey, and at the Princess Alice Hospice. She has a special interest in osteopathic care for oncology patients and in palliative care, is undertaking funded research into the contribution to, and standards for, osteopathy in palliative care and is studying for an MSc in Palliative Medicine at Cardiff University.