Claire Gregory

Claire Gregory is a 2002 graduate from the British School of Osteopathy. She has developed her osteopathic work into a portfolio career combining a mixture of teaching, private practice work and working for the General Osteopathic Council (GOsC).

Her work for the GOsC is in the capacity of Return to Work and Further Evidence of Practice Assessor. She was also involved in the portfolio pilot revalidation scheme and leadership development program.

Claire worked as a clinic tutor for Oxford Brookes University at its Swindon clinic for two years and has continued her interest in teaching by teaching infant development in Bristol. She is committed and passionate about continual learning and has recently returned from Samoa where she was helping to set up an internship with World Rugby.

She lives with her partner in Wiltshire where she runs a busy multi-disciplinary clinic.
