John Chaffey

John Chaffey is a member of the Policy Advisory Committee.

He qualified at the British School of Osteopathy in 1988 and has run a large osteopathic practice in Essex for the past 28 years. He works with a team of 11 osteopaths seeing a mix of private and NHS patients in three different settings.

John attained a research-based degree at the University of East London in 1991, comparing osteopathic and physiotherapeutic interventions in the mechanical discomforts of pregnancy.

John has worked in osteopathy education since 1991 as a lecturer and clinic tutor. An osteopathy module leader for two years at Oxford Brookes University, he is currently a clinical tutor at the European School of Osteopathy and lectures undergraduates and postgraduates on communication and compliance.

John has been an external examiner for final clinical competence since 2001 and has examined at most of the osteopathic educational institutions. He is currently external examiner for the London College of Osteopathic Medicine.
